- Apart from a variety of small wild animals there are also snakes such as Puff adders and Cape Cobras during the warmer season, and it is therefore advisable not to wander into the fynbos unattended. Should you encounter a snake please contact the 'snake catcher' provided in the information booklet.
- At certain times of the year, such as the breeding season, ostriches could be dangerous too, rather do not approach them at any time and give them right of way.
